

FDIC Deposit Insurance Coverage

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) is an independent agency of the United States government that protects against the loss of insured deposits if an FDIC-insured bank or savings association fails. FDIC deposit insurance is backed by the full faith and credit of the United States government. Since the FDIC was established, no depositor has ever lost a single penny of FDIC-insured funds.

FDIC insurance covers funds in deposit accounts, including checking and savings accounts, money market deposit accounts and certificates of deposit (CDs). FDIC insurance does not, however, cover other financial products and services that insured banks may offer, such as stocks, bonds, mutual fund shares, life insurance policies, annuities or municipal securities.

There is no need for depositors to apply for FDIC insurance or even to request it. Coverage is automatic.

To ensure funds are fully protected, depositors should understand their deposit insurance coverage limits. The FDIC provides separate insurance coverage for deposits held in different ownership categories such as single accounts, joint accounts, Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) and trust accounts. Deposit accounts owned by corporations, partnerships, unincorporated associations, employee benefit plans and government entities also are covered by FDIC insurance.

Basic FDIC Deposit Insurance Coverage Limits*

Single Accounts (owned by one person)	$250,000 per owner
Joint Accounts (two or more persons)	$250,000 per co-owner
IRAs and certain other retirement accounts	$250,000 per owner
Trust Accounts	$250,000 per owner per beneficiary subject to specific limitations and requirements
Corporation, Partnership and Unincorporated Association Accounts	$250,000 per corporation, partnership or unincorporated association
Employee Benefit Plan Accounts	$250,000 for the non-contingent, ascertainable interest of each participant
Government Accounts	$250,000 per official custodian

*These deposit insurance coverage limits refer to the total of all deposits that an accountholder (or accountholders) has at each FDIC-insured bank. The listing above assumes that all FDIC requirements are met.

**Legislation authorizing the increase in deposit insurance coverage limits makes the change effective October 3, 2008 through December 31, 2009.

FDIC TEMPORARY LIQUIDITY GUARANTEE PROGRAM

International Bank of Chicago is participating in the FDIC's Transaction Account Guarantee Program. Under that program, through December 31, 2009, all non interest-bearing transaction accounts are fully guaranteed by the FDIC for the entire amount in the account. Coverage under the Transaction Account Guarantee Program is in addition to and separate from the coverage available under the FDIC's general deposit insurance rules.

When funds in a non interest-bearing transaction account are swept, transferred or reclassified to an interest-bearing account they are no longer eligible for the guarantee provided under the Transaction Account Guarantee Program.
